

Congratulations!

You're the lucky recipient of the best present ever: A whole year full of books! Someone special thought you'd love this eclectic collection of suspenseful novels, a dozen terrific mysteries delivered directly to your door. Whether your box of literary goodies has already arrived or is still en route, here are a few clues about each title. (You can read more about these books at basbleu.com.)

January: A uniquely twisty whodunit that will transport readers as never before.

February: A cozy contemporary mystery set in a Scottish resort town.

March: An absorbing mystery that follows an Australian detective back to his hometown to dredge up long-buried secrets.

April: A 1925 gothic crime classic by the "American Agatha Christie."

May: A historical novel about a baffling massacre at a country house in 1920s England.

June: An engrossing thriller about a deaf woman who stumbles upon a murder.

July: An unputdownable psychological thriller that's an intriguing exposé of class, power struggles, and the complexities of motherhood.

August: A multi-layered crime novel about a suspicious suicide that draws a detective back to a case that's haunted him for decades.

September: A contemporary novel that smolders with suspense as it tracks the disappearance of an unconventional wife and mother.

October: A fast-paced mystery that guides readers into an astonishing, strange, magical new world in Gilded Age Manhattan.

November: A vintage whodunit set in a secluded Italian ski resort.

December: A haunting collection of classic and contemporary ghost stories for the final days of the year.

Happy reading!
